

MODERN TRILBY SINGS OPERATIC AIRS WHILE IN HYPNOTIC TRANCE

Miss Graham Startles Music
Teachers, Under Her "Sven-gali's" Control.

Several hundred members of the New York State Music Teachers' Association and groups of physicians, physicists and laryngologists listened to a modern Trilby to-day when Miss Marion H. Graham, a comely young woman of twenty-two, living at No. 58 Manhattan avenue, appeared in the auditorium of Early Hall, Columbia University, and sang a selection from "Pagliacci" while in a hypnotic trance.

Miss Graham was to have sung three songs before the concert of music teachers, but after she had finished the aria from "Pagliacci" she dropped off into a deep sleep, from which she did not awaken until she was conducted from the platform to an anteroom. In the anteroom she recovered and sang the "Ave Maria" and a selection from "Lullaby."

It was entirely by accident that Miss Graham's accomplishment as a singer was discovered. A doctor was treating her, after an operation on the nasal bone, and asked her if she ever sang. She replied she had not, but always felt a strong desire to sing. She had been hypnotized several times to cure a headache. The doctor suggested the employment of suggestion to induce Miss Graham to sing.

As the young woman took her seat in the platform to-day, her body was partially rigid and her eyes closed. Her hands and arms worked convulsively, before she sang and while she was singing. There was no laying on of hands or mesmeristic paces. The hypnotist made no movement of any kind, simply sitting in a chair opposite the singer and holding her with his eyes.

When the phonograph was turned on, Miss Graham gave no sign of life or animation, save for the convulsive movement of her hands. When she began singing her lips were only slightly parted. Nevertheless, her song flowed forth with extraordinary volume and she sang without a break or the slightest falter about five minutes, when the phonograph stopped.

The instant the phonograph stopped the young woman seemed to fall into a deep coma. The hypnotist sought in vain to revive her, or rather to restore her to the state she had been in while singing. Half a dozen physicians came up on the stage and asked questions. Worked in the anteroom, asked if there was any danger. They were assured there was none. Later, when Miss Graham was taken to an anteroom, her voice was heard again. The smooth, rich tones seemed miraculous from one who had never been tutored in singing.

STOWAWAY FOUND STARVED

Spaniard Found Dead Had Tried to Survive on Cork.

While the shipmaster Francisco Camacho, arrived from Seattle with a cargo of cork, was being unloaded at Pier A, 10th Street, to-day, the body of a young Spaniard was found in the lower hold. He had stowed away in the cargo when the vessel sailed from Seattle on June 1 and had died from exposure. He was in the early twenties and poorly clad. There were no money or papers in his pockets.

The stowaway's body was found directly beneath the hatch which had been battened down after the ship sailed. It was evident that he had eaten a quantity of cork before he succumbed to hunger and thirst.

Ingersoll Watch Week at all Riker and Hegeman Stores

This is the week to lay aside your jeweled watch for the Summer and replace it with an Ingersoll, which keeps accurate time under conditions that would put any ordinary watch out of business.

Summertime means your watch in your outside pocket—exposed to theft on crowded cars, to loss, to falls, to perspiration.

Carry an Ingersoll, which costs less than repairs on other watches and gives you the right time without worry or restraint.

Look in any Riker and Hegeman window this week and you will see such a watch demonstration as never before was shown.

Get your Ingersoll before the Fourth.

Ingersoll "The Watch that Made the Dollar Famous"

Everybody knows the Dollar Ingersoll. When a man gets one he gets one of the wonders of the $1 times. In nickel or gun metal finished cases....

Every Ingersoll is guaranteed by us, as well as by the makers.

Other Ingersolls

Thin Model "Eclipse"

Here's a new popular Ingersoll made on the popular thin pattern. It has a solid nickel case that wears a $1.50 lifetime. Nickel or gun-metal finishes.....

The "Junior," Small and Thin

There's a great demand for the small, stylish watch with the usual Ingersoll reliability at a small price.

Here it is, and, besides being a gentleman's watch, it's the greatest ever for boys. Solid nickel case. Nickel or gun-metal finishes.....

The "Midget" for Ladies

Until the Ingersoll brought out the "Midget," there was never a really accurate ladies' watch of moderate cost. Now women, too, are finding out the comforts of knowing the time without the worry or expense of a delicate timepiece. Also the perfect watch for girls. $2

Nickel or gun-metal finishes.....

An Ingersoll for the Desk

Although the Ingersoll is so inexpensive, it keeps such time that few can get any additional benefit from paying more. Hence it's the great timepiece for everyday work. The office man wants one, and we have a special desk watch at $1.25 that can be taken out of its stand and carried in the pocket.

Ingersolls are also of unequalled utility and satisfaction for those in factories, shops and stores.

The ONLY Summer Watch

Nearly everybody needs a watch for outdoor use. If you drop an Ingersoll it keeps ticking cheerfully along. If you lose it, it doesn't "break" you. Going to Coney Island, on the beach, playing tennis or golf, on the diamond, motoring, fishing and in the crowds and confusion, it is real economy to carry an Ingersoll.

Ladies Carry the "Midget" Ingersoll in Their Hand-Bags

It's becoming a national habit among women to carry a "Midget" Ingersoll in the hand-bag. Every woman needs the time, and in the hand-bag or purse it's always convenient. For the Summer the "Midget" is the only sensible watch for women and girls. Business women find it helps to punctuality. Nurses almost universally use it.
